Center asks for C.O.N. approval

The Ypsilanti Rehabilitation Center in Belleville has submitted a Certificate of Need to the Michigan Department of Public Health for approval of the establishment of a physical therapy and rehabilitation service to serve the Belleville, Canton Township and Ypsilanti areas.

The health care facility needs state approval and a recommendation by the Health Systems Agency board before making a change in service, ownership or incurring a capital expenditure.

If approved, the rehabilitation facility expansion program would be completed sometime in April.

Dr. Bedell on U-M panel

Dr. William Bedell, Supt. of the Romulus Schools, last week accepted an invitation to serve on a three-member panel which will examine "Education in the Eighties: The Fiscal Challenge" at the University of Michigan's Winter Seminar Series.

Juan returns to Bogota

by MONA GRIGG

When Juan Carlos Roa went home to Bogota last week, he took with him memories of experiences most students in this country only dream about.

Juan Carlos, a foreign exchange student from Colombia, stayed with three different Romulus families during his year-long visit.

A high school graduate before he came, he took advantage of Romulus High School's "Level 13" advanced classes to improve his English skills.

With the last of the three host families, Donald and Connee Morris of Walnut Drive in Romulus, and their children, Eric, 16, and Kristi, 14, Juan Carlos spent the Christmas holidays in Florida. While there, he had a chance to visit Disney's new EPCOT Center, and for the second time, Disneyworld.

Earlier this year, Juan Carlos, along with 230 other exchange students, had an opportunity to visit 23 of the 50 states (including Florida) on a tour sponsored by Rotary International.

"It's been great having Juan Carlos here," Connee Morris said. "We took him hot-air ballooning, and he went up in a private plane, plus he kept up with his three loves: golf, tennis and water-skiing."

"We all learned a lot from one another," she added. "It was as exciting for us to learn about Juan's culture as it was for him to learn about ours."

When asked in an interview the day before he left what he thought about Michigan — and Romulus in particular — Juan Carlos replied, "I love it here. I would like to come back some-

A fair exchange

Like Dorothy heading for the Land of Oz, when exchange student Juan Carlos Roa left his home in Bogota, Colombia to travel to Romulus he didn't know what he'd find. When he left last week for his homeland in South America, Juan Carlos said he would "take back fond memories of a beautiful country and beautiful friends." Juan Carlos accepted a diploma for his studies at Romulus High from principal E.L. Sheffield (at left) before his departure. Also on hand are Joel Carr, former principal, and now business manager of the school district and John Domas (at right), Youth Exchange Chairman for the Rotary Club, the group that sponsored the young student's stay in the United States.

day. This has been a wonderful chance to learn about people in a different country."

Were there any surprises? Was it what he expected?

It was pretty much as he expected, he said, because he had been supplied with books about Michigan and about Romulus.

"But what surprised me most," he said, "was the state of the economy. In South America, we are taught to believe that America is a rich land. Then, when I came here, I was surprised to see on TV and in the newspapers how bad things were — especially in Michigan."

Once back in Bogota, Juan Carlos will pursue a criminal law degree at the University of Colombia at Bogota.

"One of the nicer things about schools here," he said, "is that I was able to pick the classes I wanted. In Colombia, school is very structured. They tell me what classes I must take."

English is a required subject in Colombia, but Juan Carlos discovered, on arriving here, that he understood it much better than he could speak it.

"It was difficult at first, but I learned to speak it pretty well just by being in contact with other people," he said, adding that he has spoken Spanish to only one other person during the year he was here.

While Juan Carlos Roa was looking forward to going home, he hopes never to lose touch with the many friends he made here in Romulus...and his friends here feel the same way.

The exchange was, after all, a two-way street: An exchange of cultural understanding, of ideas — but, even more, an exchange of long-lasting affection.

Council asks for 'emergency plan'

The crash of a United Airlines DC-8 cargo plane last Tuesday in Romulus triggered a debate in the council chambers as council members asked the administration what contingency plans it has considered to meet any future disaster.

The plane crashed shortly after takeoff from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, killing its three crew members. The airport is in Romulus' city limits and the crash was the first major one in recent years.

"There is nothing anyone can do when a plane which has lost its engine power comes down to earth," said Mayor William Oakley. "You just have to pray that everything in its way isn't hit."

"However, there is something we can do when the plane is down. A whole series of events can take place quickly and effectively to see that the welfare of those who survive such incidents are taken care of immediately."

Mayor Oakley said that he will instruct and direct newly-appointed Fire Inspector Charles Bradley to devise and present an emergency plan. The plan will be hammered out in conjunction with the Office of Emergency Services and one of Inspector Bradley's major tasks will be "to formulate a plan."

Councilman Alan Lambert criticized the administration for "not having a plan in force right now."

"Our citizens have to live with this (planes flying overhead) every day," Lambert said, "and I believe that we have talked about this in the past. There has to be something concrete to work with, and I'm requesting that the administration come up with something."

"I feel that we did a commendable job and, I agree, we should — and will have — something on paper so that a plan of action can be followed. But, tell me, how can anyone stop a plane from crashing?"

State: 'No cheating in MEAP Test'

Although officials from the State Department of Education said they found "no evidence of an attempted cover-up," they did agree on invalidating the test scores of all of the 10th graders at Romulus Senior High who took part in last fall's Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) testing.

The state met with Dr. William Bedell, the Superintendent of the Romulus Community School District, and school officials last Friday to discuss the exams.

Some 20 members of the Romulus instructional staff met with Department of Education officials to clear the air on the district's handling of the 1982, 10th grade MEAP tests.

Edward Roeber and Martha Caswell of the Department of Education discussed the test procedures with Dr. Bedell, Principal Al Sheffield, Department heads and teachers.

Roeber and Caswell detailed the proper procedures for the test, solicited questions from the staff, and then asked questions concerning the Romulus test approach in 1982.

Some of the staff pointed out that at the high school level, the test was administered after students had been shown copies of the previous test and within the five day waiting period immediately preceding the test.

Roeber pointed out that both of these procedures are not acceptable.

The staff members indicated they felt they were following the directions of Principal Sheffield and a number of them had protested to him about the appropriateness of these procedures.

At the meeting, Dr. Bedell indicated: "It's pretty clear that the 4th and 7th grade tests were administered cleanly and without any problem. The 10th grade test had enough problems connected with it that I am going to recommend to the Board of Education that we invalidate this year's high school MEAP

Scores."

Roeber said that "there was no evidence of attempted cover-up here and I think the school officials are doing the right thing by invalidating the test."

Bedell concluded: "I think the whole situation has been unfortunate, especially for the students and teachers at the High School. Mr. Sheffield was merely attempting to make sure the kids would be able to deal with the test adequately. As a first-year high school principal, he became over-zealous in giving staff directions in this area. I think we've all learned a lesson and we'll go on from here."

Accused of Lake Villa's $1.2 million blaze

Arson suspect bound over for trial

Joel Thomas Wallace, a former resident of the Lake Villa Apartments, has been bound over for trial in Circuit Court on charges of arson. Wallace, 32, is accused of setting the fire that caused $1.2 million in damages at the apartments last October.

Wallace will be arraigned on the information provided during a preliminary examination held last week in 34th District Court before Judge James Stone.

Judge Stone determined that there was enough evidence to bind the defendant over for examination on the arson charges in the higher court. Wallace will appear in Circuit Court on Feb. 11. He was released on a $5,000 bond.

Wallace's arrest culminated a two-month investigation by Van Buren Township and State Arson Task Force into the October 9 fire that routed some 24 families from the apartments. No one was injured.

Wallace resided in Apartment 304 prior to the fire. He is an employee of General Motors Hydramatic Plant in Ypsilanti.

In an unrelated incident, Van Buren police said that Walter Green, accused of sexual assault of a 12-year-old Belleville boy, was also bound over for trial in Circuit Court after a preliminary hearing in District Court.

Green is charged with criminal sexual conduct, first degree and a co-defendant, David Earl Pace, 30, also of Belleville, is awaiting trial in the same case.

Green was remanded to Wayne County Jail after he failed to come up with $50,000 for his bond.

Dearborn police handed over to Van Buren authorities four men who are accused of a break-in of a gas station in the township.

In police custody and charged with the break-in of Woody's Gas Station are Mohamed Sabbagh, 21, of 2114 Saline, Apt. 28, in Dearborn, Haidar Abbulacif, 22, Mousa Faraj, 19 — both of Dearborn — and Basam Ali, 22, of Detroit.

Dearborn police last week arrested the four suspects while on a surveillance at a high crime area in Dearborn, according to Van Buren Det. Kenneth Laskaska and Det. Mark Perkins.

"They observed the defendants fleeing the scene of an alleged B&E (break-in) and followed them," Det. Laskaska said. "The suspects had in their possession stolen property which was traced back to the break-in here."

Taken from the gas station in the township were 360 packs of cigarettes, a case of oil and miscellaneous items. The video and pinball games were also forced open. The four suspects were arraigned before Judge Henry Zabrowski in 34th District Court (Romulus). They stood mute upon their arraignment. Bond was placed at $50,000 and the suspects were remanded to the county jail to await a pre-trial hearing scheduled for Jan. 26.

'Monumental jigsaw puzzle'

FAA says plane crash tapes revealed nothing

Federal Aviation Agency investigators said yesterday that they have not found any reasonable cause for last Tuesday's DC-8 cargo plane crash that claimed the lives of its three crew members.

Listening to tape recordings of the crash, investigator Tom McCartney said that "everything appeared to be normal" just before the fatal crash around 2:50 a.m. south of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport's terminals.

Pieces of the wreckage have been assembled in a hangar at Metro in hopes of finding the cause. The last thing the pilot said was an acknowledgement of his clearance for takeoff, FAA officials said. Several witnesses have told FAA authorities that one of the engines appeared to have exploded shortly after the takeoff.

"The airplane is very badly broken up and it's going to be a monumental jigsaw puzzle for our structure teams," McCartney said. "It may take months before we have the answers."

The crew, all based in Los Angeles, were identified as Capt. William S. Todd, 55, a United Airlines pilot since 1955; 1st Officer James G. Day, 51, and 2nd Officer Robert E. Lee, Jr., 50.

Lighter topping for pancakes and waffles: Lightly sweetened fruit puree, marbled in plain yogurt. Use baby food or fresh fruit.

To cook fresh vegetables evenly, especially in a microwave, cut them into uniform pieces. Place most delicate parts — broccoli florets, for instance — in the center of the dish, the tougher stalks toward the outside.

Try Italian herb seasoning instead of salt (or salty ketchup) on french fries.

Cut apples won't turn brown if you put them in acidulated water: 1 cup water and 1/4 cup lemon, orange, or pineapple juice. Adds nice flavor, too.

Ramada's Regular Club 250 show up for 'gala celebration'

The Detroit Metro Airport Ramada Inn management rolled out the carpet for some very important people last Friday and welcomed members of its "Regular Club".

The Inn, located in Romulus, played host to about 250 local and state business people who have taken advantage of Ramada's friendly environment and food over the years.

"The Ramada Regular Club is a program that we have instituted for our special business people who have guaranteed corporate rates and reservations along with a lot of other V.I.P. specials," said a Ramada spokesman. "Friday night was our way of sort of saying 'thank you' to these people for believing in us."

The local Ramada is located on Merriman Road off Interstate I-94, near the Metropolitan Airport. Reservations can be made by telephoning 228-2828.

Ramada Inn has "some very special people" whom they thanked Friday night with a gala affair that included excellent food and entertainment. These V.I.P.'s belong to the Ramada Regular Club and enjoying themselves at the fete are Franz Schoeberlein (picture above), sales manager for Ramada Inn of Romulus, Richard E. County begins shuffle of staff, commissions

The Wayne County Commission will meet Thursday to consider a number of ordinances and resolutions which would provide staff and establish other boards and officer under jurisdiction of the new legislative branch of county government.

Two of three personnel items to be considered, if adopted together, would dismiss the continuing staff of the old Board of Commissioners but maintain all civil service rights acquired before Jan. 1 when the new charter form of government took effect.

New employees of the Commission will not have civil service status and rights. They will be directly appointed by the Commissioners and serve at their pleasure, subject to dismissal without cause. Even old employees of the Commission in non-classified jobs will be subject to dismissal without cause, but they retain their civil service rights and can reenter the civil service system in classified positions.

The third personnel resolution would fund the proposed staff of the Commission, which would include a core staff serving all commissioners as well as other personal staff for each individual commissioner. Last week in discussions of the Committee of the Whole, the commissioners tentatively approved up to $25,000 for personal staff and a limit of $1.5 million for the entire staff (both personal and core).

Among the other ordinances to be considered, one would establish the office of Auditor General, as specifically recommended in the County Charter. Although the Auditor General would be an employee of the Commission, he or she would be empowered to investigate and audit all county expenditures, whether legislative or executive.

The remaining three ordinances would create a Board of County Canvassers, Metropolitan Airport Zoning Board of Appeals and a County Election (Scheduling) Board. The Commission is authorized by the charter to appoint and remove members of these boards.

"Those protected under civil service laws have little to worry about"

Also at a meeting of the Commission last week which immediately followed the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, the commissioners appointed County Corporate Counsel George Cross the chief of their proposed new Legislative Research unit at $55,000 annually.

At the same session, however, they tabled a motion to also appoint former Commissioner James J. Rashid as Cross' assistant at $40,000 a year because several complained that the proposal was offered on such short notice.

Mayor Oakley says:

New tax law on interest unfair to seniors

When Congress approved a tax on interest paid by banks and financial institutions, they went too far.

That's the opinion of Romulus Mayor William Oakley who today urged senior citizens to launch a campaign to repeal the tax.

"The new federal law which requires all interests earned on savings accounts to be subject to a 10 percent withholding for federal tax purposes is unfair to our senior citizens," Mayor Oakley said.

"Most of our seniors are living on modest incomes and are having difficulty making ends meet as it is, now we have a new tax that will obviously hurt them."

Mayor Oakley said that senior citizen groups should launch a campaign to make Congress aware of the unfair tax. He suggested that all seniors should contact their U.S. Representative (William Ford) and U.S. Senators - Carl Levin and Donald Reagle to solicit their help to repeal the tax.

Wayne council nears decision on vacancy

Thomas Kelly and Albert Damitio appear to be the frontrunners to replace Milt Mack for a seat on the Wayne City Council.

Five candidates for the vacancy, created by the recent resignation of Mack, were interviewed Monday night by the council — Beverly Campbell, Ray Robichaud, Edwin Rowe, Damitio and Kelly. Damitio and Kelly were scheduled to appear before the council again last night for further discussions.

The candidate selected will serve a term on the seven-member council until November of this year. Mack's resignation was prompted by his election to a position on the new Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Damitio, an engineer, is a member of the City Planning Commission and along with Campbell and Rowe has been an active volunteer for community's fall festival committee.

Kelly, an 11-year resident of Wayne, serves as a media director at John Glenn High School and also has been active in community affairs.

"The council as well as the nominees feel that the selection process has been very fair," noted Mayor Patrick Norton. "We extended an invitation to Mr. Damitio and Mr. Kelly to come back tonight (Wednesday) so that the council could get to know them better."

Attention all aliens

The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) has placed in operation a new automated Non-Immigration Information System which for the first time enables the agency to keep an accurate accounting of aliens entering and leaving the United States.

The automated system will alert INS promptly when an alien who is admitted for a specific term fails to depart within that time. It will also provide timely statistical and other information concerning arrival and departure of foreign students, tourists, business travellers and others. It will enable INS to determine how many aliens in a particular category and of a specific nationality are currently in the United States.

Sullivan named to committee

House Speaker Gary M. Owen today announced the appointment of State Representative Richard F. Sullivan (D-New Boston) as vice chairman of the House Military and Veteran Affairs Committee and member of four other standing House committees.

State to construct noise barrier on I-94 stretch in Romulus

The sounds of trucks groaning and moaning on the I-94 Expressway may soon become a sound of the past.

Edward E. Mahalak, State Representative (D) Romulus announced this week that many Romulus residents will be shielded from the rumble of trucks and cars on I-94 by a noise barrier.

The huge structure will be built on I-94 from Wayne Road east to Michael Street in Romulus, Mahalak said.

"I am making a strong effort in assuring that those residents along I-94 and I-275 be protected from the high noise level.

"I have received but two complaints from the residents that were affected, however, I had been working with the Department of Transportation to schedule the sound barrier project," Mahalak added.

There will be a public hearing scheduled for the residents to testify and express their feelings in regards to the sound barrier.

There are a number of projects scheduled. Mahalak has insisted that the Romulus sound barrier be scheduled for construction early.

"The Department of Transportation sound survey shows that the traffic noise level on this part of Romulus along the freeway not only exceeds current federal noise standards, but that it is one of the worst locations in Michigan which does not have a sound barrier.

"The determination of the kind of materials that will be used to build the barrier will be made largely by the Romulus residents who are affected by the noise from the freeway," Mahalak added.

On Sun., Jan. 23 between 1 and 4 p.m., four tax services employees will be at the Romulus Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, 36515 Bibbins Street, to help fill out tax forms for senior citizens.

Huron plans 'bingo party'

What school or school district is not in need of funds? Probably a very few.

To raise money for the extracurricular activities, the Huron School District is planning a "bingo party" at the Miller Elementary School on Jan. 20 from 6:30 p.m. until 10 p.m.

The entire proceeds of all money raised from the bingo will go to support the extracurricular activity programs for the Huron School District.

The bus drivers of Huron Schools have offered to operate the bingo program for the first month. That will be followed by other community projects.

This is the first of many projects planned to fund extracurricular activities for the school children of the Huron School District.

The goal of the extracurricular activity fund is to raise between $150,000 and $200,000 to provide activities such as, a full athletic program, a full band program, choir, drama, sponsors for particular clubs, class sponsors, field trips for elementary school children, the swimming pool being opened for the entire school district.

The spirit by which the church will succeed

I am honored that I have been asked to write a sermon for the "Church Page" of this paper. In response, I offer the following, addressed to the christian community of this area.

Every church wants to be successful. If the church is to succeed, it must evidence certain distinctive qualities which, to me, have in them the ingredients of success. An ethnic minority church in Kansas City stated the essence of this sermon succinctly in the following slogan which it is reported to have adopted:

"Wake up, sing up, preach up, pray up, stay up, pay up, but never give up, or let up or back up or shut up, until the cause of Christ in this Church and in the world is built up."

A church which lives up to that slogan has to be a winner. And to live up to that slogan, one must be completely sold on the church and what it stands for and commit himself to it.

Let me describe for you how I perceive the Spirit of the church that will succeed. Perhaps I should first define what I mean by "succeed". Success of the church should not be defined in the terms of the beauty of its buildings, how full are its coffers or how large is its attendance, although prosperity in these areas often accompany success. It should be thought of in qualitative terms of its effectiveness in winning persons to Christ; the evidences of vitality in its corporate life; the influence for good it wields in the community; the effort it makes to "comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable"; its effectiveness in teaching and training its people, youth and adult, in the art of christian living; and its loyalty to what it stands for and believes in.

What are some of the hallmarks of the church which will succeed? First, it will be a church which has deep conviction — conviction of the rightness of the verities of the christian faith. It was deep conviction which brought the church into being to begin with. It has been deep conviction by which it has existed, and it will be conviction by which it will prevail. Conviction such as that displayed by the church in Germany prior to World War II — the church of Martin Niemöller who died in a German prison because of his loyalty to his faith.

One writer states that there is a timeless truth in Albert Einstein's comment on the stalwart church in Nazi Germany: "Being a lover of freedom, when the revolution came in Germany, I looked to the universities to defend it (freedom), knowing that they had always boasted of their devotion to the cause of truth. But no, the universities immediately were silenced. Then I looked to the great editors in days gone by who proclaimed their love of freedom; but they, like the universities, were silenced within a few short weeks. Only the church stood squarely across the path of Hitler's campaign for the suppression of truth. I never had any special interest in the church before, but now I feel a great affection and admiration because the church alone had the courage and persistence to stand for intellectual truth and moral freedom. I am forced thus to confess that what I once despised, I now praise unreservedly."

A second hallmark is that of confidence. I refer to that deep, calm, serene, undisturbable confidence which knows that, though God may be delayed, that He may be disappointed in us and hurt, that ultimately He can never be defeated. The church knows this because of its faith that in the final analysis God will win in the struggle between good and evil. It takes courage from the assurance that eventually, "Every knee will bow and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father." Also, because, in ways beyond our human ability to understand, we are

CHARLES E. JACOBS

CHARLES E. JACOBS came from a "ministerial" family. His father served as pastor in the Michigan Conference of the Methodist Church for several years before serving as traveling evangelist for seventeen years prior to his death in 1935. Charles had two brothers who were pastors, fully ordained members of the Michigan Conference, the Methodist Church, for over 30 years. Both are now deceased. His only sister was the wife of a Methodist minister.

He is a graduate of Charlotte High School, Charlotte, Michigan; attended Bay City Junior College, Bay City; along with his wife, Dorothy, with a bachelor of sacred literature degree; has a bachelor of arts degree from Central Michigan University; and master of divinity degree from Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Kentucky.

He is married to the former Dorothy Richardson of Bay City. They have four children — two sons who are now fully ordained ministers in the Detroit Conference of the United Methodist Church — Charles R., serving Hancock, in the Upper Peninsula, and James D., serving in Birch Run, one daughter, Kaye Reinhart, lives in Adrian; another daughter, Beth, graduated from John Glenn High School in 1975, attended Eastern Michigan University, graduated from Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky in 1980, where she will graduate in June with a master's degree in christian education and music.

Before coming to Wayne in 1970, Rev. Jacobs served on the Saginaw-Bay and Flint districts of the Detroit Conference of the United Methodist Church. He is now in his 39th year of ministry.

Four His Glory

Four His Glory, a music ministry outreach team will be at the Westland Free Methodist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 23.

Comprised of four students from Spring Arbor College — Mark Thompson, a senior from Clarkston, Greg Stevens, a senior from Warsaw, Indiana, Gary Bontrager, a senior from Owosso, and Greg Bontrager, also a senior from Owosso — the quartet performs at churches, camps, clubs and rallies during the school year.

Their music ministry centers around gospel songs, hymn arrangements and contemporary Christian music.

Four His Glory is one of several music ministry opportunities offered Spring Arbor students.

Spring Arbor College was founded in 1873 by the leaders of the Free Methodist Church as a private academy with elementary and secondary grades. It evolved into an institute of higher learning in 1920, acquired four-year liberal arts status in 1963, and grants the associate and bachelor of arts degrees.

The integration of faith, learning, and living is a continuing goal of Spring Arbor College that makes it a unique educational institution, a school whose purpose is to educate the whole person.

The public is invited to attend. Westland Free Methodist Church is located at 1421 Venoy Road, Westland.

assured that "All things work together for good to them that love God and to those who are the called according to his purpose."

I think that another hallmark of a successful church is that the people in it enjoy being together, have genuine love for each other, and express interest in growing as sons and daughters of God and brothers and sisters in Christ. This is a church that experiences and expresses true fellowship in which there are joyful greetings, expressions of affection, concern for one another's well-being, and mutual sharing. People will talk about "their" church with glowing pride. It will be contagious. It will grow because people bring people.

Yet another hallmark will be that the successful church will be composed of people who will give attention to the careful instruction and processes of learning of the Biblical and historic christian faith as a continuing ministry. It will not be treated as a convenience or an option, but as a necessity, a mandate.

Likewise, there will be a basic integrity in that church. What happens on Sunday in worship will have relevance to what happens every other day of the week. What they say in church on Sunday, is what they live by all week long.

Certainly a major hallmark must be Concern. Where the spirit of Christ dwells there must be a genuine concern for alleviating the hurt and pain in the world. That concern will express itself in evangelism which seeks to share the Good News with all people; in mission which sees the global scope of the Gospel; in social concern which seeks to be involved in the troubles and problems and struggles of our time.

These all lead to a last one, commitment. All the others are relatively meaningless unless one turns the spotlight on himself and asks, "What does this mean to me? What can I do about it?" And he is led to commit himself to the work of God.

Moses, seeing the suffering of his people, the slaves of Egypt, abandoned the glamorous court of Pharaoh and took their suffering upon himself, becoming one of them, their leader, thereby becoming a prototype of Jesus Christ. He committed himself to their cause.

Someone has said that most of the evil in the world seems to be caused by one or two percent of the population. What would happen in the world if, on the other side, one or two percent of the people of the world would commit themselves completely and utterly to the cause of God? This is that to which the church is called, and it is called to succeed.

Read Ezekiel 37:1-14

For a year, my wife and I have lived and worked on the Mexican border with many displaced persons, individuals and families who have come from other parts of Mexico or Central America. Like Ezekiel, we have found ourselves overcome by their alienation.

Ezekiel was a prophet to the Israelites in exile, displaced persons uprooted from their homeland. As he lived among them, he was astonished by their alienation and hopelessness. His message became a message of hope for their future. In a vision he saw the dry bones in the valley, representing the dispersed children of Israel, coming together and taking on new life.

There are millions of displaced persons around the world today — victims of war, political conflict, or economic oppression. Many of them have left a rural lifestyle to find their way to the city, where they find their cultural and spiritual roots cut.

For such people God has a message of hope. God calls those who are uprooted to come together to find new life and unity in Christ's name.

PRAYER: Enable us, O God, to identify with the suffering and alienated. Like Ezekiel, may we speak a word of hope. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Hope is faith in the future.

Newly-wed Smiths fly to Hawaii for honeymoon

A 10-day honeymoon in Hawaii followed the autumn marriage of Cynthia Ann Clark of Detroit and Timothy Edward Smith of Roseville.

The young couple repeated their nuptial vows and exchanged wedding bands before Msgr. Ferdinand Decneudt, a close friend of the bridegroom's family from Fraser, and some 100 guests at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Music for the four o'clock rite was played and sung by Kathy Higdon of Chicago, a friend of the bridegroom's family.

The daughter of Robert and Rita Clark of 8200 Hannan Road, Wayne, the bride was escorted to the sanctuary by her father. For her wedding day she selected a white Juliet gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long clear sleeves cuffed with embroidered lace. Other styling details included a little fitted bodice frosted with re-embroidered Venetian lace and seed pearls and a chapel train which added back interest to the softly flared A-line skirt.

She wore a tilt-brimmed white hat of matching lace accented with seed pearls, silk flowers and a veil of silk illusion which drifted to ankle length.

Completing her bridal finery was a full cascade bouquet of pale pink and white roses, carnations and trailing English ivy.

As her sister's honor attendant, Gail S. Clark of Wayne donned a burgundy gown in toe-touching length designed with a high collar and full sleeves. She wore a semi-circular headdress of burgundy and white silk flowers and ivy and carried a grapevine wreath entwined with silk burgundy and white flowers, ivy and berries tied with white satin streamers.

The seven bridesmaids, wearing identical outfits, included two more sisters, Beth Clark of Lansing and Janice Clark of Wayne; a sister-in-law, Debra Clark of Belleville; Cheryl Pollack of Romulus; Cathy Coury of Atlanta, Ga. and Kathy Windall and Merita Day, both of Cleveland, O.

The bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Margaret Smith of 15472 Rudland, Roseville, chose his brother, Michael Smith of Roseville, to serve as best man. The corps of ushers was comprised of Bruce Clark of Belleville and Brian Clark of Wayne, brothers of the bride; Steve Buffa of Warren; Wally Burzynski of Rochester; Gary Fraser and Chris Sorgi of Fraser and Steve Lozon of New Baltimore.

For the occasion, Mrs. Clark chose to wear a floor-length aubergine crepe gown to which she pinned her corsage of white sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Similar flowers were worn on the dusty pink crepe gown which the bridegroom's mother wore.

Some 275 relatives and friends attended the 6:30 p.m. reception which followed at Roma's of Livonia. On returning from their Island honeymoon the newlyweds took up residence at 4645 Bedford, Detroit.

A graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Smith attended Eastern Michigan University, Cleveland State University and Washtenaw Community College. She and her husband are both employed in the reservation office of United Airlines in Dearborn. He is a Fraser High School alumnus and attended Ferris State College for two years on a hockey scholarship.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's mother at her home in Roseville.

Suburban Living Editor

What with our new governor and his advisors and the 98th Congress about to clobber us with still more tax hikes, a supposedly "uneditorializing" writer should not pick the Costs of Living as a subject on a nippy and dreary January day, a time when W-2 forms are pointing out all that withholding tax!

But it's a glum afternoon and you're already down so what've I got to lose? I might just as well take that proverbial dollared bull by the horns and give it to you straight.

If you've already raised a family, you know the arm and leg you're missing; if you're mid-way through the fight, you might still have both limbs. If you're still in the should-we-or-shouldn't-we stage and are leaning toward we should. — lots of luck!

On perusing a release from our nation's capitol last week, I was just a bit shaken by these heart-warming statistics I'm about to pass on to you.

Be prepared to spend a bundle if you're referring to bundle as a noun (as in "baby") rather than as a verb (as in "to bundle or cozy-up"). According to a survey by health insurance experts, the cost of a normal birth, including medical and layette expenses, is now a cool three thou (as in $3,000.)

The cost of a cesarean delivery — and nearly one in five women are having them these days — is a whole grand more.

Hospital costs for about three days (the average for a normal delivery) including room and board, labor plus delivery room and anesthesia, come to about $1,450. Add $640 for nine months obstetrical care and $850 for baby's wardrobe, nursery items, feeding equipment and bath items excluding furniture.

The survey, which covered delivery costs in some 200 hospitals across the nation, also found becoming a parent costs more in the Northeast, less in the South, more in an urban area, less in a rural one.

And to think the tiny entity who causes such a dip in the bank account (not to mention ongoing morning sickness) is usually a mere 20 inches in length and seven pounds-five ounces in weight.

I realized our little grandson was something very, very special but I didn't realize he was 14 carat gold!

HOW 'BOUT A FEW MORE STATISTICS?

THE AVERAGE newborn American could expect to live an additional six years if heart disease were eliminated. Another six years would be added to his average life expectancy if diseases of the kidney, blood vessels and ducts were conquered. And if the war against cancer could be won, another 2½ years could be tacked on for that newcomer.

Newborn baby boys on the average weigh in at seven pounds - 11 ounces while their little girl friends weigh seven pounds - two ounces.

For every 100 girls who are born, 105 boys make it. But those little females are sturdier, so by the adolescent years they outnumber boys. The older they get, the more disproportionate, too. By age 65, there are 100 women for every 72 men.

THE FIRST MONTH

THE ROMANS had gods for nearly every purpose, including one for gates and doorways, of beginnings and of the rising and setting of the sun. — and that was Janus. He is depicted on ancient Roman coins as facing in two directions at once.

That made him a natural for the deity after whom the first month of the year should be named since it was, in a sense, guarding the portal of the year. Hence, January (just in case you were sitting there wondering about that unusual word.)

It's Girl Scout Cookie Time— Scouts'll soon be taking orders

That sweet-tasting time of year is here again — Girl Scout Cookie time.

Some people wait all year to buy Girl Scout cookies. And this year orders will be taken from Jan. 21 through Feb. 11 by Girl Scouts across southeastern Michigan.

Handling sales in this area for 1983 are two Belleville women and one from Romulus. Darlene Viers will see to activities at Elwell, Edgemont, Savage and St. Anthony's Schools, a total of 18 troops, while Nancy Beatty will be in charge of Haggerty, Tyler and Quirk Schools, also 18 troops.

In Romulus, Bonnie Michniewicz will oversee the project at Cory, St. Aloysius, Hayti, Merriman, Halecreek, Wick and Barth, 28 troops in all.

New this year is the Nutty Chocolate Chip, the nutty part being pecan morsels. There are still the traditional varieties of Thin Mints, Peanut Butter Patties, Shortbreads, Assorted Sandwich Cremes, Caramel deLites, and Peanut Butter Sandwiches for sale. There is a new price of $1.75 this year in Huron Valley. The price increase is consistent with other councils in the area and across the state.

Girl Scout cookies have become an American tradition, a tradition which is the financial backbone for providing Girl Scout programs and services to nearly 10,000 girl members in Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe Counties.

Troops are asked to participate in the sale for several reasons. First and most importantly, the cookie sale is the largest Council fund raiser. The proceeds earned from the sale are returned to troops through the use of three council camps, special programs and events, staff services, girl and adult training opportunities and much more.

Second, the sale provides the opportunity for the community to meet, learn about and give Girl

Scouting their financial support.

Third, the sale can provide program activities for the troop, as the troop determines for itself how the girls might sell, what techniques to use, safety factors to consider, how to set goals and how to budget and spend the income earned.

The purchase of Girl Scout Cookies is more than buying groceries. It is an investment in the future of girls ages 6 through 17. Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is celebrating its 25th Anniversary this year. Buy Girl Scout Cookies and keep Girl Scouting going and growing.

Huron Valley is a United Way Agency serving girls in Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe Counties.

BPW reports successful year; announces projects for 1983

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) met Jan. 10 at Faith United Methodist Church of Denton. Following dinner, the Bulletin Committee introduced David Ippel, administrator of Oakwood Hospital's Family Medical Centers of Sumpter, Canton, Brownstown and Dearborn.

He has an extensive background serving the deprived, ill and needy of this area. He was a member of the Peace Corps in West Africa for two years and since returning to the United States, has worked in public health with residents of nursing homes, foster children and day care centers as well as in drug rehabilitation programs.

He presented an important message on health and told of the services available at each of the centers. The Sumpter Center will again sponsor its free health clinic this spring, a service for all persons 18 years of age and older. Local retired registered nurses volunteer their services for this clinic, the purpose of which is to seek out small health problems before they become too serious.

Club business included forthcoming events: a spring fashion show in March; International Weekend in Windsor in February (reservations must be in to Gwen Ashe by Jan. 31); state convention at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island in May; the national convention in Columbus, O. and international convention in Washington, D.C.

Other spring projects include a lap-robe "bee" at Sophie Zoller's home Jan. 21; the Young Career Program; selection of the Belleville High School scholarship winner and also a BHS student to attend Girls State at Central Michigan University.

The Foundation Committee will have a surprise raffle next month and will be in charge of the February 7 meeting.

A resume of the club's past activities was also drawn up by the Humanitarian Committee and presented as a reminder to the group and the community as to what the BPW accomplished in 1982.

A new child's car seat was purchased and presented to the Head Start Program. Ms. Eleanor Kosteci of the Social Services Department, Wayne County Intermediate School District, was present to accept the gift which was to be given to a pre-selected family where there was a very great need.

A contribution of $100 was given to the Romulus Help Center, a Social Service Agency, which serves residents of the Belleville, Van Buren and Romulus communities. This Help Center performs household chores for senior citizens, assists victims in their homes who have suffered accidents or other misfortunes which renders them temporary invalids. The center also works with persons who have drug-related problems.

A donation of $25 was mailed to the World Vision Hunger Program. This agency provides equipment, supplies and methods for people of the Third World countries, to produce more food for their starving populations.

Approximately 36 toys were donated to the Belleville Fred C. Fischer Public Library. These toys were for pre-school children to use while parents are busy selecting books, etc., at the library.

During the Christmas season, the BPW Club collected six cartons of food supplies, and donated them and $100 to the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce for their holiday needy project.

When you read or see that the Belleville BPW is having a yard sale, sidewalk sale or a booth at the Strawberry Festival, your donation is helping to enrich the lives of people in this area.

The Belleville BPW executive committee this year includes Ruth Davis, Margaret Saunders, Martha Ryznar and Evelyn Lauber.

Views On Dental Health

By SHERMAN H. KANE, D.D.S.

COMPOSITE FILLINGS

The kind of filling the dentist uses depends on the location of the tooth and the area to be filled. The most common filling is the silver or amalgam type. These are usually used on the flat, biting surfaces or where they will not be visible. For fillings where the material must match the color of the tooth, such as the front teeth and often for gumline fillings of back teeth, your dentist will probably use a filled resin or composite filling. It is tooth colored and the most popular material used today for this use.

Over a period of time, the composite may stain more than the natural tooth, and eventually filling and tooth may not match as well as they did originally. Also, they may wear at a faster rate because the material is not as hard as the natural tooth enamel (the hardest tissue in the human body) and are not recommended for use on biting surfaces of back teeth. Composites, however, have the great advantage of being esthetically pleasing. For most people that far outweighs their few drawbacks.

Cities need funds more than hospital authority

How much food and clothing will $30,000,000.00 buy?

On Thursday, January 6 Mayor Charles Pickering of the City of Westland, Michigan, called an organizational meeting of representatives of various civic groups to discuss ways to help the unemployed and needy in Westland.

A good share of the problem could be resolved if the Mayor and Council of Westland would instruct their representatives on the Board of Directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (owners and operators of five (5) hospitals in Wayne and Washtenaw Counties — Annapolis, Beyer, Heritage, Outer Drive and Seaway) to vote to rebate to their respective communities their proportionate share of some thirty million dollars or more which the P.C.H.A. has accumulated in surplus monies over the last few years.

While the taxpayers in the communities which belong to P.C.H.A. continue to be taxed every year by the P.C.H.A. this organization which is supposed to be non-profit, made $8,598,877.00 dollars in profit in 1983 (they prefer to call it income over expense). They earned $5,752,013.00 dollars in interest on the approximately $30,000,000.00 surplus sitting in the banks.

While the twenty four (24) communities which make up the P.C.H.A. are forced to lay off police and firemen (jeopardizing the safety of their community) the officers and directors (not all of them) and administrative staff of P.C.H.A. continue to carry on business as usual.

The chairman of the Board of Directors, Don Pizzimenti (an employee of Detroit Edison) lives in Allen Park, Michigan and the mayor of Wayne, Pat Norton, the Executive Director, John Freisinger of Belleville, Michigan and the Attorney, B.W. Smith, who lives in Dearborn, Michigan and other members of the Board of Directors who are followers of Pizzimenti, prefer to keep the $30,000,000.00 dollars or more to add to their empire such non-essential items as doctor's offices (the doctors have their own offices and are opposed to forcing them to give up their offices and move on campus — as it's now called), nursing homes, which at present the area has more than enough, more additions to the new central office administration building which already costs approximately seven million dollars to accommodate some 84 employees with a budget of $5,222,000.00 for 1983, to a $750.00 chair for the assistant laundry manager.

Pizzimenti and his followers have battled other members of the Board of Directors and their communities in the courts causing huge legal fees on both sides to be paid in the reduction and/or elimination of the 4/10 mill assessment paid each year, rebate of their share of the $30,000,000.00 surplus and trying to stop the wild building spree which Pizzimenti has embarked on which totals some $55,000,000 dollars.

At present the City of Lincoln Park has obtained a restraining order from Wayne Circuit Court Judge Michael Stacey, which prohibits the P.C.H.A. from spending any of the surplus money until a hearing is held in February, 1983.

The P.C.H.A. has budgeted $447,797 for legal fees for 1983 for their part-time attorney, B. Ward Smith of Dearborn, Michigan, so it should be no secret to the reader why Mr. Smith wants to keep the legal battle going.

The real irony in this entire matter is while policemen and firemen are being laid off along with all of the unemployed in the auto and related industries, the man who Governor Blanchard appointed to head up his financial crisis committee is non-other than Walter McCarthy Jr., Chairman of the Board of Detroit Edison Company and Don Pizzimenti's boss.

On December 22, 1982, the Board of Directors threw a party for themselves. The annual bash this year was held at the Airport Hilton Inn, complete with open bar before and after an elegant dinner with all the trimmings, with band music and corsages. This little soiree this year set the taxpayers back $2,400.

Under the leadership of Pizzimenti the P.C.H.A. now has itself involved in a clinic sponsored by Oakwood Hospital. The executive director of P.C.H.A. admitted to a local newspaper last week that the clinic is a dismal failure. P.C.H.A. now has $1,500,000 invested as their 50% share of this white elephant and the employee, Fred Barton, who helped engineer this fiasco two weeks ago jumped ship and left P.C.H.A. and now has the position of vice president in charge of Planning for Oakwood Hospital.

Every person who lives in a community which is a member of the P.C.H.A. should attend the very next meeting of their mayor and council and township boards and demand that their representatives on the hospital board be instructed to vote to rebate the money to the communities or be removed from the board if they fail to do so.

The citizens and taxpayers of these communities should also attend the monthly board meeting to be held on January 27, 1983 at 7:30 p.m. in the new $7,000,000 administration building of the P.C.H.A. located at the corner of Annapolis and Venoy Roads in Wayne, Michigan.

Thirty million dollars or more will go a long way toward alleviating some of the financial crisis in the communities which make up the P.C.H.A.

It can help to feed and clothe the unemployed, keep firemen and policemen on the payroll or rehire those laid off, provide for or help E.M.S. and help meet the many other needs that each community faces in these trying times.

But to do this you must first rebate the money and the stumbling block is Don Pizzimenti, Chairman of the Board of P.C.H.A., a Detroit Edison Company employee and his followers who are the seven members at large and some of the appointed members and Walter P. McCarthy Jr., Chairman of the Board of the Detroit Edison Company who is Pizzimenti's boss and the man who refuses to even meet with the mayors and supervisors to discuss Pizzimenti's role in this continuing battle.

Age-old court question

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

If Kathie Rockwell had a hammer she'd build a new court in Wayne.

Obviously Mrs. Rockwell, who is politically astute and knows that without support "nothing really gets done", will need community support for this ambitious venture.

The 29th District Court, housed in what once was a meat lockerroom at 36040 Michigan, has been labeled one of the worst-if not the worst-facilities in the state.

Here comes the judge, Judge John Seiler, to describe what happens in the courtroom when court is in session and afterwards when justice is being meted out:

"We have no witness rooms," Judge Seiler said. "No prosecutor's room. No defense room. No police meeting room. No security detention cell and there's no decoration or warmth at all."

"In fact one visitor here described this place as a 'dump'."

Seiler, who has served the community and the district as judge for the past 22 years, has waged an on-going battle with the City Council to either find or construct a new court facility. He has had little success.

The city has come up with several plans to solve the problems, but none has materialized. Judge Seiler believes that if council really wanted the problem solved it would do so.

"They (the city) have remodeled City Hall, built a jail, the city police station has been remodeled several times and they've added a recreation department with all the trimmings. They've also built a five-story parking structure over there on Michigan Ave., and you're going to tell me that they sincerely made an effort to find a new court facility?"

"Do you know that when the jury has to deliberate a case they have nowhere to go, so we pull down the shades here and everyone leaves the courtroom and let the jury do its work. And this isn't the first time I've described these conditions to anyone."

"I've been before council before and it doesn't seem worth fighting anymore," Seiler concluded.

But Mrs. Rockwell feels that there is a just cause here.

"Everyone says it's a shame, that the courtroom is in such deplorable condition, but no one apparently wants to do anything about it. That's why I'm asking residents to help resolve this problem," Mrs. Rockwell said.

Mrs. Rockwell related that she had been in the courtroom recently and "it is embarrassing when you have to walk by someone who is in conference with his lawyer and they think that you're being nosy."

"Surely this city deserves better than that."

City Manager Tom Daily, who inherited the problem, said he and council are "very aware of the problem."

"The city hopes to solve this problem within the next 18 months, and we're working toward the solution. There are some options we're looking at at present."

In the meantime, Mrs. Rockwell will probably purchase that hammer.

Cleaning air on toxic waste

EDITOR — This week the TV news featured pictures of the Berlin & Farro toxic waste site in Swartz Creek.

The story indicated that chemicals were uncovered that, when mixed with the substance being removed, created a toxic gas. Further, that the officials were considering evacuation of the area.

These are the substances that the D.N.R. wanted to bring into Van Buren Township.

At our Lansing meeting with the D.N.R. we asked Dr. Tanner about the chemical reactions that might occur if some of these materials were mixed. His answer was "We don't know".

We now know some of the results, unfortunately at the expense of the citizens of Swartz Creek.

We feel vindicated in our actions, and again, thank the citizens for their support to prevent this toxic waste from entering Van Buren Township.

Who's living in terror?

EDITOR — This is in reference to your "Living in Terror" editorial of December 22-23.

Do you usually condemn an entire area based solely on one person's opinion without checking the facts? Perhaps the person has problems but they are not the fault of the neighborhood.

As a home owner in this same area for the past twenty-six years, these same neighbors have been more than kind and helpful to me. I have seen them cut Mrs. Hawkins' grass, shovel her out after snowstorms, water and feed her animals in her absences, and one neighbor tried baby-sitting for her but couldn't depend on her.

Because you carry the title of "Managing Editor" some people may have been prejudiced by your editorial and I resent that very much.

Withhold my name please, I wouldn't care to have a rifle pointed at me, even if it had no ammunition.

Editor — I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the 1982 Inkster Goodfellows to thank every one of you that made the Inkster Goodfellow's drive a success. In my many years of fund raising I have never experienced the over all generosity of a community.

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

he was ecstatic!

"It saves money," he shouted over the telephone, "and it is so warm! There is a difference in the heat."

"I know," I answered.

"How do you know?" he asked.

"Because when I was a very little girl I used to jump out of bed in the mornings, trace pictures on the frosted windows, run down icy-feeling steps and slither in behind a wood-burning stove, where I dressed, with the crackling warmth touching my body clear through.

I expect, if the natural gas prices again climb to the ceiling, to see horse's and buggy's brought back. There was nothing more exciting than being all dressed up to go to Grandma's, and leaning over the buggy and watching the buggy wheels cutting into the dust of the road, listening to the clop-clop of the horses' hooves, and watching his tail lazily swinging back and forth, as we crept slowly towards a summer's day of chicken, home-made ice-cream and lemonade.

It will have been full-circle for me.

another department at Social Services who said, "We've got to stay within the law with our requirements, but we also have to realize that some of those people have only a temporary need for assistance. To ask them to sell off everything they own in order to get it is cruelty beyond belief." But what can you do, I asked her? "We can step up our referral services," she said, "so that when people call, they won't hear, 'Sorry, we can't help,' and then a receiver slammed down in their ear. We should make it our business to know where they can go for help."

Which brings me to awareness. Remember last week when we talked about awareness? Well, I've been able to add to our list of resources and you'll find it encapsulated on the preceding page. (I apologize to last week's Eagle readers for the mix-up. Your editions didn't carry our "Hunger Hotlines".)

We'll carry it in abbreviated form for the next few weeks. In my column I'll try to pass along information not included in the "Hotlines" listings.

By next week I should have a copy of a nutrition guide being put together by the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, and I'll report back on a conference I'll be attending on "Serving the poor and new needy".

reflections

Do things really change?

One time I said in great profundity that life goes in circles. That nothing is absolutely new. What is, has been, and will be again. Oh, I know that most of you will tell me that that knowledge was imparted to us a long time ago by philosophers, and reiterated through the ages, but, honestly, when I said it I thought I had just found out something new.

I thought I had found something new, because I had reached that age in life, when I was going over the circle and meeting myself again.

When I was a young married woman with one little girl, I used to spend hours ironing. All of those ruffles and lace and circular skirts on cotton fabric, had to be washed, starched, hung up on the line where they stiffened into board-like objects, taken down, sprinkled heavily, rolled and left to soak up the sprinkling, and finally ironed. The lace on the ruffles stood straight up, and the ruffles would not have dared to droop.

When I was at last finished and totally exhausted, my neighbor would run in with a steaming cup of coffee and beg me to sit and rest a minute while she told me how it was when SHE raised her children. She had to heat the iron on a wood-burning stove. And she knelt down every night and thanked God when the electric iron came to pass.

That is how I felt when polyester came into being. By that time I had a house full of kids, and how great it was to throw their dirty clothes into an automatic washer, zip them from there and into a dryer, where they came out soft and unwrinkled. A quick swipe (if I were in the mood) of a steam iron made my children's clothes look as if I had spent hours at the ironing board. Sometimes I just folded them and pressed them with the palm of my hand.

It was a happy time, and I didn't know that I might have been damaging my kids health.

That is what I read this morning. Natural fabrics are coming back in, and one reason is because they are so healthy for you. Synthetic fabrics won't let your skin breathe, the article said, and that is the reason so many kids have rash on their faces and bodies, and all the time I thought it was because they weren't using enough soap.

New mothers can expect to be right back where I was almost forty years ago, spending hours at the ironing board, ironing those little cotton dresses and shirts and jeans.

Another time when I realized I was over the top of the circle was when my oldest boy brought home his new car and with all of the enthusiasm of eighteen year old new car owners, was eschewing the value of the stick shift. The STICK SHIFT!!

"Let me drive your car around the block," the neighbor kids begged. And he let them.

"Let me drive your car around the block," I said, and the kid looked at me in horror.

"Mother — you can't drive this car around the block. How would YOU know how to use a brand new thing like the stick shift?" How, indeed?

Mini-skirts! Remember when any girl who wanted to be in style wore skirts almost up to her waist line? And my kids thought it was a brand new idea. But I remembered when I was a little girl, and I had a best friend whose mother ALWAYS wore skirts way above her knees. She was a flapper.

"Scandalous," my grandmother snorted. But I thought it was beautiful. And I begged and begged my mother to shorten HER dresses until they barely covered her posterior. I was so embarrassed when my best friend came to my house, and my mother's dresses came to her KNEES!

And wood-burning stoves! My son installed one in his house and Who's hungry and where are they?

You may have seen the survey the Detroit News did recently on "Hunger in Michigan". The report was put together by 12 News staff writers stationed throughout Michigan, including the Upper Peninsula.

The report, considering it covered the entire state, was fair, I suppose, but if the reader never go beyond, "Hard times prevail, but no one's starving, News survey finds" or beyond the first few paragraphs, (I'll explain in a minute), he or she might think there really was no hunger problem. He or she would be dead wrong. But let's go on:

In the first few paragraphs of the article, three outstate people took part in interviews in which they say they've looked, but they can't find many hungry people.

One of them, a minister, said he opened up the first soup kitchen in Boyne City two months ago, with $1,000 in surplus funds and 200 pounds of potatoes, but only 25 people showed up for preaching and hot meals. (My emphasis on "preaching"). Unless something drastic has happened in Boyne City within the past six months or so, a soup kitchen is the last thing I would expect to see there.

Boyne City is a stable, fairly wealthy community, unaffected in the main by fluctuations in the auto industry and in the economy in general. Even the 25 people who showed up must have thought it was a little strange.

Then, a staffer of the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services told the News that people call her office all the time with offers to help the hungry and she has to tell them that she has all the food she can handle; what she needs are hungry people.

"That leads to questions like 'Is this really a major crisis or is it just fabricated?' she offered, 'If there's a real need, why aren't we seeing it?', the lady wants to know.

Doesn't that woman know where she lives? Doesn't she know that poor people hesitate even to drive through the land of yachts and Miami Beach boutiques, let alone attempt to live there?

In among those first three paragraphs, too, was a story about a Sebawa merchant who offered three baskets of food if three families could be found who could use them. Huron County Commissioner Bruce Kuhl says, "I looked and looked and couldn't find anyone who needed food that badly."

Now, I don't for a moment doubt his word. I do, however, wonder why the News writers chose those three stories for their lead paragraphs. Especially when, later on, they cite many more instances of need than not.

For example, they say: "Distribution of food, particularly in urban centers like Detroit, may be a problem. Nutrition may be a problem."

• "The group with the most unmet needs comprises people who have exhausted unemployment benefits and savings and have thousands of dollars invested in their homes. These people are reluctant or unable to sell their houses. They qualify for little federal or state aid other than food stamps, and may have no money for food in the months between applying for and receiving stamps."

• "Do you have to be naked and ragged to qualify (for help)? Do you have to be homeless? Imagine someone used to earning $400 a week who loses that paycheck . . . that's needy". (quote by Pontiac mayor's assistant)

Now none of us wants to "fabricate" a need that isn't there, but neither do we want to convince ourselves that there is no problem, when there is.

It all boils down to degree . . . and to attitude.

I talked to a woman at Wayne County Social Services the other day who, after I asked her what people looking for aid at their offices could or couldn't possess, said: "They can have a house and a car and $1500 worth of additional assets. Now the house could be a million-dollar-house and the car could be a Cadillac — granted, that may be slight exaggeration, but I'll tell you, those are the kinds of people we don't want to see."

She went on to say that before anyone comes to see her, they "better get rid of everything else." There's nothing wrong with expecting people to sell off everything and live off of that before they look for public assistance, she said.

I talked to another woman in

The donations of money, food and clothing were given by people who were saying that they "care". We are very thankful to all of you for making our project the most successful one since I have been in the Goodfellow movement. We were thankful for the $500 from the United States Army Reserve, which was one of the larger donations, as well as the pennies that were donated by the school children.

From my experience of mentioning names, I know that it is a bad practice because invariably someone will be omitted. However, we must give special thanks to Cherry Hill High School students who for the last several years has generated thousands of dollars selling newspapers.

We thank God for an energetic and tireless committee; Robichaud High and Inkster High all working to see that "no child was without a Christmas". Thanks a million to the Police Auxiliary, Mike Kadoura — the lone policeman, Jerry Cabanau — a fireman, the men from the various churches and clubs that sold newspapers.

Thanks to The Associated Newspapers' The Ledger Star edition, for the fine publicity in helping us to raise funds. To our city administrators who annually cooperate with us, we say thanks.

Finally and not the least, I thank God for bringing me through a critical period of uncertainty of my health to enable me to help our little precious children. May God bless you all. The Committee wishes you a happy, prosperous and spiritually rewarding new year.

Crash coverage 'not true'

EDITOR — In reference to The Associated Newspapers—Romulus Roman's coverage of the DC8 crash in last weeks paper.

I was disgusted to see the big splash on the front page that a cargo plane had exploded over the city. Where it exploded was no where near the city and was one of the safest places for a plane to crash. You couldn't even see the wreckage from Wayne Rd.

The article was printed a day after the crash. Why wasn't it brought up to date as far as true facts. For one it was a DC8 not a DC7. The bodies were found and the radioactive material was found all in the same day so the facts printed were not true.

People who do not live in Romulus reading this article would get the wrong impression of this article and the airport commission.

I congratulate Wayne County on keeping construction out of the airport runways and for buying property in and around the airport to keep homes from being built. Granted there are homes in and around many approaches and take off runways but these too are at a good distance.

crash can happen at anytime.

Our airport has been fortunate not to have many fatal crashes. I commend Wayne County and Detroit Metro Airport on their good work.

Hook's cleaners gets 'thank you'

Editor — I would appreciate space in your "Letters to the Editor" section to bring attention to the generosity of Hook's Cleaners in Wayne for their help in a recent Christmas project.

The CardioPulmonary Services Department at Annapolis Hospital had been collecting used toys and clothing for several weeks, in order to join the efforts of several area service organizations in supplying Christmas presents to those families that might otherwise have none.

Many stuffed toys and clothing that were collected needed cleaning, and we asked Hook's Cleaners for help. Their response was immediate and positive. They volunteered to do the cleaning, with no expectation of recognition, in a truly unselfish and compassionate spirit.

The citizens of the area should be aware of the efforts of this fine, community minded local business. In fact, we know that many businesses undertake similar volunteer efforts that go largely unrecognized. For this generosity, they deserve our thanks.

Aaron's goes to bat for seniors

EDITOR — Spreading joy, happiness, goodwill and love — that's what Christmas is all about and Aaron's Seafoods is no exception.

On Monday, December 21, 1982, Aaron's Seafoods Restaurants opened up its two locations to senior citizens and provided them with a delicious seafood dinner free of charge. Both locations were filled to capacity as a husband and wife team William and Lucille Aaron worked their socks off to provide this wonderful service. The entire event was coordinated by their daughter, Delores Aaron, a teacher at Fellrath Middle School in Inkster.

The senior citizens arrived by bus, car, and van to partake of this wonderful Christmas treat.

Of course, this is not the first time an event of this nature has occurred. Mrs. Aaron makes it a point to provide food, money or clothing for the needy every Christmas. Sometimes, she doesn't even wait for this festive holiday. She does it whenever she feels it is necessary.

For the past several years her charitable acts in and around the Detroit area have gone unnoticed or publicized — something like an unsung hero. I believe now is the time for all local citizens to "take their hats off to the Aarons of Aaron's Seafoods, and say thank you for sharing and caring for our needy, neglected and oftentimes forgotten."

People rally to help needy

EDITOR — I wish to express my gratitude for the many gifts of food, money and other things you all gave to help me through this rough time.

All the people from the Lakeview Tavern, the Belleville Post Office, (especially Bill), the Goodfellows and Jerry Maton, the Lions and Lioness Clubs, the square dance groups, and all the many other friends that gave things to me through Capt. Nemo's.

Everything is being put to good use and I appreciate it all and I know it will help speed my recovery. You will all be in my heart and mind as I return to the hospital today.

Thank you for thinking of me. And thanks from Char also.

Evacuation plans questioned

EDITOR — In reference to Councilman Alan Lambert's discussion on the nitric acid spill at Solvental Chemical Co. in Romulus.

In no way were we in the Huron subdivision notified of a possible evacuation. The first I knew of the situation was when my son came home from school at 11:30 and told me what was going on.

As the story stated, the wind was blowing in the right direction as there wasn't even a taint of chemical smell in the air.

I understand Mr. Lambert lives in the back of our subdivision and therefore he wasn't as close as I am to the chemical companies, so he doesn't seem to know who did what.

They make more noise with loud speakers at an election than they do in a possible disaster situation.

I too agree with Councilman Barry Bauman. We need a better civil defense system.

Angie's Country Inn

Versatile band provides weekend entertainment

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Kenny Miller pondered the question. After 22 years in the music business, it's difficult to figure out just exactly how many songs his repertoire includes.

"Oh, at least a thousand," he speculated during a recent interview at Angie's Country Inn in Romulus. "I started out doing bluegrass and gospel but the devil pulled on my leg too much for me to play gospel."

"So I played some rock-n-roll and then Country rock. That's how I lasted 22 years."

Miller and his band, Country Lads, are the featured performers at Angie's, which is located at the corner of Ecorse and Wayne Road. Their brand of Country music keeps the place jumping Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 9 until 2 a.m.

Owner Donnie Mathis of Romulus hopes to transform Angie's Country Inn into the area's top Country Western lounge. His plans include booking a number of national acts as evidenced by the recent Elmer Fud-pucker show from Nashville.

The menu offers the following selections: hamburger, $1.85; cheeseburger, $2; ham sandwich, $1.85; ham and cheese sandwich, $2; stuffed pizza, $2; chili, $1.25; and french fries, 85 cents.

One popular promotion is the all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner each Sunday for $1.99.

Mathis, however, knows that it will take more than just a quality menu to fill his 150-seat lounge on a consistent basis. And that's why he places a heavy emphasis on live entertainment.

Angie's patrons enjoy such attention grabbers as stump the band, mix-n-match nite and talent nite. Nightly drink specials and the lack of a cover charge are designed to keep everyone happy.

"Our first goal is getting them through the door," admitted Miller. "There's been a misconception about this place and we're fighting that."

"I've played in Oklahoma, Nevada, California, Texas and Michigan and this area has some of the better Country music around."

Angie's Country Inn is open from 7 a.m. till 2 a.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. till 2 a.m. Saturdays, and noon to 2 a.m. Sundays.

'Nameless Show' on Sundays

"Dangerous Exposure," the best of the local radio New Music shows, has changed locations on the FM dial. Formerly on WABX, the show, as it was, has moved to WLLZ although the former station is holding on to the title. A quick listen last week to the changed-format WABX "Dangerous X" show had Kenny Loggins leading the way on the (yuk, yuk!) "progressive" show.

"We have to change the name of the show," says Tom Mallia, the longtime producer of the show along with on-air personality Greg St. James, "because they feel there's an established audience tuning in to 'Dangerous Exposure,' even though what they're doing now with it bears absolutely no resemblance to the show as it was. I hardly consider Barry Manilow dangerous."

"So for now," Mallia adds, "it's the Nameless Show, on WLLZ Sunday nights at eight. It'll be the same wide-open new-music format that we proved there's an audience for on WABX. We're taking suggestions from listeners for a title for the show." Stay tuned to WLLZ Sunday nights at eight for details — and for the best in new music.

David Bowie, the chameleon-like rock performer who has been a force in setting trends — both fashion and music — for over a decade now is finally recording a new album, with a tour to follow.

No release date has been set for the record, but it's believed that it will be put out around the time Bowie's next movie, "The Hunger," is released. The long-delayed live album, featuring Mick Ronson & The Spiders from Mars, and the concert film of the event, which chronicles the band's final 1973 show, is set for release in early summer.

The Jam, one of the finest bands to emerge out of Britain's original "punk" movement have called it quits, and right at the peak of its popularity. The band's idealistic leader, Paul Weller, mentioned how secure the group was becoming in the marketplace and "realized we were going to end up like the rest of them." An excellent live album has just been released on Polydor, the Jam's stateside label.

Reportedly, the band that once published ads in the trade papers stating that "Blondie Is a Group" isn't any more. It's hard to shed tears over their demise because even though they were once one of the best musical groups in America, lately they've — no other printable way to put it — stunk. Their last LP, "The Hunter," made one consider that hey, maybe the Slim Whitman revival wasn't so bad after all...

Ex-Romantics' guitarist Mike Skill has rejoined the Detroit band, only this time on the bass. Maybe his songwriting skill will rejuvenate the group enough to make an album that'll hold up to the promise of their debut single ("What I Like About You") and album.

It seems that Pat Benatar's hit version of D.L. Byron's "Shadows Of The Night" was lifted from Akronite Rachel Sweet's last album. After first denying it, it was pointed out to the Benatar camp that Pat's version implemented lyric changes that Sweet had made in the original (with Byron's consent), causing a few red faces and a reported out-of-court settlement.

Based on the 1920's "Scopes Monkey Trial," the play involves a young Tennessee teacher who is brought to trial for teaching the theory of evolution.

Wayne residents Jacquie Guernsey and William Ostlund will serve as director and producer respectively while the major roles will be handled by Ralph Day, Michael Swain (Canton), Charla Caliguire, Ryk Phillips (Westland), Bob Walker (Westland) and Joseph Haynes (Belleville).

Rounding out the cast are Vivian Garrett, Moose Cates, Bryan Cheever, Isabel Barrett, Fred But-ton, Helen DeJulio, Floyd Guernsey, Tobin Hissong, Jeff James, Jesse James, Ben Kemp, Carla Lenhoff, Holly Twitchell, Andy Waggoner, Bob Weibel, Lori Moses, Erica Jones, Eric Brinch, Jamie Chobot and Heather Jones.

A dinner theatre package is available for the Jan. 29 performance with tickets priced at $10.50 for adults, $9.50 for senior citizens and students and $6.50 for season ticket holders. Reservations for dinner, which will be served at 6:30, must be made by Jan. 21 (call 595-6117 for details).

'Kidtown U.S.A.'

Preschoolers enjoy 'their own city'

Preschoolers at Romulus High School Childrens Center afternoon session had the enjoyable experience of running their own town during this past week.

The weekly theme entitled "Kidtown U.S.A." included a restaurant, clinic, carpentry shop, beauty/barber shop, grocery store and a bank which created and controlled the currency used by the junior town's folk.

Children took turns operating and patronizing the "small businesses" under the supervision of high school student aides.

Career awareness and the concept of "how money works" were the primary focus of the unit. Pictures seem to show that fun and cooperation were also a big part of kidtown.

The Romulus High School Childrens Center operates as a laboratory experience for Vocational Child Care classes. Forty children are enrolled in the program which is in session Monday through Thursday, October through May.

There is a morning session under the direction of Jean Schneidt as well as Jan Haynes' afternoon session.

Applications for admission to the 1983-84 school year will be taken beginning April 11.

Call 941-2170, extension 68, for further information.

Now for Franklin
Glenn edges nemesis, North

Whew!

A collective sigh of relief could be heard from the fans of Westland John Glenn as the Rockets eked out a 53-52 victory over old nemesis, North Farmington. The victory kept them in second place in the Northwest Suburban League race, one game behind unbeaten Thurston, which defeated Garden City, 68-61.

For Glenn, the victory was its eighth win of the season, one more than they won all last season, and one they needed if they had any designs on the league title that has eluded Coach Dan Henry in his four years as coach.

North Farmington, under first-year head coach Tom Negotien, came to Glenn with a 1-2 league record and with hopes of moving up in the league standings. North is led by 6-2 senior center Marty Shoberg and 6-2 senior guard Mike Black. Their offense emphasizes ball control and a distinct pattern.

And it was this kind of offense that nearly did the Rockets in.

But the Rockets came out in the first quarter intent on forging a lead that North would not be able to

Wayne whips Wyandotte, 61-49

The pieces are apparently falling into place.

And at the right time.

With three of their players hitting in double figures and getting a superb board game from 6-5 sophomore Pollis Robertson, Wayne Memorial polished off Wyandotte 61-49 last Friday to even up its Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball record to 2-2.

Coach Dan Vasiloff's Zebras are 4-4 over-all on the year.

"We're beginning to put the pieces together," Vasiloff said. His Zebras were to be tested by Ypsilanti Tuesday night before hosting Dearborn Edsel Ford on Friday. "We're still experimenting, but I feel this team is coming around."

With Robertson pumping in six of his 11 points in the second period, Wayne pulled away from a 13-12 first quarter lead to a 32-23 advantage at halftime. Although the Bruins kept the outcome of the contest in doubt until the final minutes, Wayne never surrendered the lead.

make up.

Jack Walker and Paul Grazulis began to take charge on the boards almost immediately. Grazulis scored six points, including one on a bounce pass from Greg Gill that was so smooth the Raiders never knew what happened. The Rockets had a 14-9 lead after one quarter.

The second quarter was more of the same as the Rockets reeled off the first seven points of the period and it appeared the rout was on.

Todd Jennings, who had scored 17 points in two of his previous three games, led the charge for the Rock-

After 2 more close cage loses, Romulus still seeking a leader

Can anyone blame Coach Al Wilkerson for reaching for Tylenol... even in its capsule form?

When you lose two games by a total of three points, it can be disappointing on a basketball coach. And disappointing it was for Wilkerson and the Romulus Eagles who lost a frustrating 51-50 decision to Dearborn Heights Robichaud last Tuesday, then came back on Friday only to be edged out by Ann Arbor Huron, 42-40.

"This is no fun for the kids or myself when you lose that close," Wilkerson moaned. "Sure we're disappointed. Who wouldn't be when you come so close to winning, and you lose."

Romulus appeared to have the game against Robichaud all sewed up, but an errant pass in the final seconds led to the Bulldogs' winning basket. Grant Long had provided the Eagles a temporary reprieve when he sank a lay-up, then the losers cashed in on a turnover.

However, with the seconds ticking away to the game's end, Robichaud's Jarvis Walker picked off a pass and went the distance of the court and turned the error into a three-point play and a victory.

"A mental error cost us a chance to win this one," Wilkerson said.

Long finished the evening with 16 points and 14 rebounds to lead all players. Teammate Kevin Baker chipped in 12 points while Perkins counted 10 points.

The Eagles had ample opportunities at the free throw line, but made only 10 of 20 shots.

Hitting a dismal one of 14 shots in the third period, Romulus unsuccessfully battled to a 42-40 setback (See ROMULUS, Page B-6)

ABC provides important bowling services

By JIM WRUBLEWSKI

This week I would like to continue describing the services provided by the American Bowling Congress. In as much as the ABC is responsible to all sanctioned bowlers in the United States it is necessary to have local representatives, as well as the National Headquarters which is located in Greendale, Wisconsin.

One of our local areas is handled by the Wayne-Westland Mens' Bowling Association.

There is a group of approximately 25 men who are elected, by representatives from each league, at an annual meeting. With the exception of the secretary, who is responsible for records keeping and handles the many day-to-day problems, the members of this board are not paid for their services.

Members of the Wayne-Westland Board of Directors are assigned to each of the five bowling centers (Wayne Bowl, Town "N" Country, Fiesta, Super Bowl, and Westland) served by this group.

Each summer these men inspect each and every lane to insure that they meet required ABC specifications. They quite literally get down on their stomachs to get under the pin setting machines in order to check the pin decks, pits, gutters, and pin spots.

Each lane is visually inspected for split boards, dimples from lofted balls, and any type of imperfection which could affect a bowling ball rolled down the lane.

When an award-winning score is rolled, these men reinspect the lanes, often at one or two o'clock in the morning, to insure their compliance to requirements. Board members are also available to sit in on league meetings to suggest ways to settle disputes at the league level.

In the event that settlements are not accomplished at the league meeting, special meetings, as well as regular monthly meetings, are called to gather as much information as possible, which is then forwarded, along with recommendations, to the national office.

Topics discussed can range from basic rule interpretations to misappropriation of funds, to the establishing of fraudulent averages. The group does not make final determinations on disciplinary action; they function as laymen, but it is surprising how much can be resolved by just sitting down and discussing problems with knowledgeable neutral individuals. Because these men donate their time, the sanction fee, those few dollars that league bowlers pay, remains small and the benefits many.

Scoring at Super Bowl this week included 192 average 16-year-old, John Kohler, rolling in the adult classic, doing some fancy travelling both on and off the lanes.

John drove in all the way from Union Lake to bowl games of 253-279-220 for 752. At one point he had 17 strikes in a row and needed the 279 game for a team win by just 2 pins.

In other action, Bob Jousma had a 267 for 674; Terry Dixon rolled 222 and 246 for a 669 series; and young Mark Moreno, rolling in the All Star youth league, had 201-207-193 for a respectable 601 series.

Youth (12-14 years old) was also served at Fiesta Lanes when Mike Shevovich, 133 average, hit 183-193-152 for a 528; and 150 average, Randy Buty hit a 225 game. It was also reported that Detroit Tiger pitcher, Milt Wilcox, was either relaxing a little before the grind of spring training, or loosening up when he bowled in the No Tap there last Saturday.

Whatever the case, he and his partner scored well enough to earn a complimentary entry the next time around.

At Lodge Lanes it was the ladies turn in the spotlight with Sharon Kline hitting a 235, and Bev Crawford totalling 632. Brian Melidosian, rolling in the 15-18 year old category, hit 212; and Karen McMillan, 12-14 year age group, had a 206 game.

At Town "N" Country lanes, J. Jedrejek and R. Landon recorded games of 289 each. Jedrejek totalled an admirable 726 series to further enjoy his night.

Westland Bowl reported that Ev Hubble had a very commendable outing when she hit 205-262-200 for a 667 series and Gail Hamilton had games of 244 and 232 for 670. The men were paced by Ted Ratliff with 720; Jim Jesson at 715, and Rick Williams made the 700 plateau with a 701 series.

The 12-14 age group was led by Mike Kumm with a 237 game and Cathy Staggs fired a 228 game. The 9-11 year olds were topped by Jim Cook rolling an even 200 game to finish this week's scoring news.

over South Lyon's Chris Parents. Salem also had the No. 1 wrestler in the 185-pound class in Harry Walkley.

Romulus

at the hands of Ann Arbor Huron on Friday.

The Eagles came alive in the last period thanks to Byron Lewis who tossed in all of his six points in that frame. Long added five of his nine points and finished with 15 rebounds, but it wasn't enough.

"We're still looking for a leader," Wilkerson said. "We just don't have someone who will take command. And, it's really ironic — at practice this team really looks good. When the lights go on, it's choke city."

At Schoolcraft, Wayne piled up 160 1/2 points to lose the title to Monroe Catholic Central by nine points.

Davis again garnered the gold medal for his performance in the 98-pound class. Harris continued to impress at 105, coming away with the gold, and teammate Pangman was the top 112-pounder. The Zebbras also earned "half-of-gold" when Ed Fowler forced Farmington's 119-pounder to split the title.

Matauch wound up first at 126-pounds, but then the defending champs were shut out from first place the rest of the night.

Westland John Glenn grapplers continued to impress as they chalked up their 12th consecutive dual meet victory of the season. Coach Tom Buckalew's Rockets haven't had a loss on the mats this year.
